

LIST OF AAFA MEMBER LABORATORIES

An essential part of an effective chemical management system is a close working relationship with one or more labs. Labs can provide testing and other consulting services to help companies design chemical management programs and conduct tests. Some labs also perform audit services.

While we can make no recommendation on specific labs, below is a list of AAFA member labs. Before you chose a lab, please make sure the lab is fully certified to perform the tests and other services you need.
